VOL. XVIII.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, JUNE 17, 1890.

NO. 3

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Charles P. Eastland, near town, had a good horse killed by lightning Friday.

—The ladies of the Methodist church will serve supper Tuesday night, by request of the College boys.

—R. L. Salter has bought the Bowman place, now occupied by W. H. Harris, on Lexington street. The price paid was $6,750.

—Mr. Reuben Gentry, Jr., is expected home every day from the South, where he went for his health, but we are sorry to hear that he is not much improved.

—Rev. E. H. Pearce preached his last sermon for the summer at the Methodist church last Sunday. His pulpit will be filled by Rev. Gross Alexander, of the Theological Seminary, of Vanderbilt University.

—The Institution for the Deaf and Dumb has had its examination and commencement and now the pupils are fixing to leave. We will miss their presence much in that part of town, but there will be no less noise than when the 200 pupils were there.

—Prof. J. J. Hogsett, of Harrodsburg, will begin a school here on the 1st of September. He has been principal of Harrodsburg Academy for nine years and comes highly recommended. This makes the eighth school for Danville. Verily, this is a place of schools.

—The hardest rain of the season, accompanied by hail, fell here Friday evening. In some parts of the county the hail was unusually hard. One lady from the country said she gathered plenty of hail to have ice water, ice in milk and make ice cream for supper. There is some complaint of the wheat being badly blown down.

—Miss Nannie Carrigan died at her home on Cemetery street Wednesday morning. She had been a sufferer from that awful disease, consumption, for quite a while and her death was not unexpected by her friends. The funeral took place at the family residence, the burial in the Danville cemetery next evening.

—At the Second Presbyterian church, Tuesday night, there will be held the annual oratorical contest between the representatives of the two literary societies of Centre College. Wednesday, at the same place, the commencement exercises will be held, beginning at 10 a.m. Both the contest and commencement exercises promise to be more largely attended and of a more entertaining character than ever before. The annual hop will be given Tuesday night.

—Mrs. Ella D. Duke closed her school with an entertainment at the Opera House Wednesday evening. There was a good crowd present, but not half so large as it was last year. There was no admission fee charged last year and this year 25 cents was charged. Those in attendance were well pleased with the exercises. The children showed all that they had had patient and thorough training. Mrs. Duke will open school again September 1st.

—Prof. W. C. Grinstead closed the public school Thursday evening with an examination of the pupils. A great many visitors were present and all speak in praise of the way in which the school has been conducted the last term. Prof. Grinstead is one among the best teachers we have in town and the public school has taken on new life under his charge. May the interest still increase, for a good public school is of more importance to any town than anything else.

—Capt. J. H. Wilson and little girl, living in this county near Dix river, had a most narrow and miraculous escape from a stroke of lightning Friday evening. While they were sitting in the yard lightning struck a locust tree near by, tearing it all to pieces and melting a wire clothes line that was tied to it. Mr. Wilson and little girl were knocked senseless and sometime afterwards when he came to he was in the house. A hole was torn in his hat and two of his toes were badly burnt, his arm was badly bruised, but thought a limb from the tree hit him. Mrs. Wilson was in Danville that evening and knew nothing of it till she got home.

Mrs. Leslie is undoubtedly the most famous woman in America. Her beauty, refinement and grace of manner, combined with her remarkable business ability, which has placed her at the head of one of the largest publishing houses in the world, unite in giving her a reputation as unique as it is extended. She has demonstrated beyond a doubt that there are women in the world who have all a clever man's shrewdness in business affairs, with ability to assume and control large financial interests, and yet remain in every way refined and womanly. Mrs. Leslie is a native of New Orleans, and grew up in the French quarter of that quaint old city. She learned French, German and Spanish at a very early age, and when little more than a child she began the literary work which has made her fame world-wide. She was married when only 15. The attachment between Mr. Leslie and herself was extremely devoted; and, at his death, she legally adopted the name of "Frank Leslie."

ON THE WING.

The Business Manager Sits Up All Night with a Mewling and Puking Infant and next Day Experiences a Railroad Wreck.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., June 13.—The changes that a few hours occasionally bring about are fast indeed, but seldom are those changes noticeable unless they are for the worse. For instance, when I left Stanford Tuesday at noon with a golden-haired sweet sixteen under my charge, I had not an inkling that in a few short minutes a change of schedule in the trains would cause me to lose my extremely pleasant and interesting companion and make me a lonely tourist for the far Southwest. Nor did I read my future fortune close enough to make me aware of the fact that when I boarded my train at Louisville at the still hour of midnight a red-headed youngster of five summers should be put under my fatherly wing with the request that I "put him off at Guthrie." Unfortunately for me I knew not what a few hours would bring forth or I should have remained in Louisville a day longer at least. To make a long story short, my young friend had partaken too freely of green apples and the like and about 2 he began to suffer the consequences. This lasted till every occupant of the car was wide awake and until I had walked some six or eight miles up and down the car trying to comfort him. Luckily a flask containing brandy was procured by a sympathizing friend and then all was quiet again. Guthrie (hereafter I shall love the name) was reached at 7:30 and my ward carefully handed over to his papa.

My train arrived at Memphis about 3 o'clock after a ride over as poor soil as the Desert of Sahara ought to want to boast of. For the most part this portion of Tennessee is heavily wooded and but for the few cotton fields there is no evidence of either life or toil. The few towns of Paris, McKenzie, Milan and such are but poor excuses bearing the title of cities. The former shows that the citizens are a little more energetic than those of the latter, but still that town, the best of them all, does not begin to compare with towns of like size in Old Kentucky. Indeed it takes such a trip as I have been over to make one appreciate Kentucky. The fertile soil is in her borders, the blue-grass is there and best of all the women, the best and handsomest, are there, and putting these three together what manner of man would he be who would not cry out in union with capable judges, "All hail dear Old Kentucky, the first, the last, the best!"

My four or five hours in Memphis were spent in sight seeing and very profitably, too. That city presents an unusually flourishing appearance and the business-like way in which things are carried on would make even a northern man feel like saying a word of praise of her progressiveness. A great deal of building is going on and "prosperity" seems to be her chosen motto. Like Richmond, Va., she has done herself proud since the civil war and to her also, the Lord has seemed particularly liberal in his bestowal of blessings.

About the biggest thing in Memphis is the Grand Theatre, now under construction and nearly completed. It is an elegant stone building and will accommodate 8,000 with ease. I had the pleasure of meeting the owner and manager, Mr. Swift, who took me through from pit to dome. It is a model piece of architecture and the clever manager informed me that it would be furnished equally as handsome as the outside appearance would indicate that it should.

A noticeable feature about Memphis is its great number of banks and soda water fountains. Of course the two things have no earthly connection with each other, but I speak truly when I say that fully half of the buildings on Main street contain one or the other. It speaks well for the place. The banks show the immense business done, while the soda water fountains go to prove that the inhabitants are satisfied with that drink rather than patronize those places where stronger beverages can be obtained.

About 8 Wednesday evening my train on the St. Louis and Iron Mountain R. R. left for Little Rock and after ferrying the Mississippi sped its way over the path of the historic Arkansas Traveler. There is no sweet without a bitter, though, and just as I was congratulating myself on the good connections I had made all along, down went our engine through a trestle some 8 or 10 feet deep and a severe jostling indeed followed. Luck is better than wealth under such circumstances and save the baggage car, which followed the engine with one end still on the track, it was the only coach that left the track. Nobody was hurt, I am thankful to say, but it was a narrow escape for the trainmen, particularly the engineer, who had to jump to save his life. It took 7 or 8 hours to clean up the debris, but when completed a new engine was ready and by 10 Thursday morning Little Rock was reached.

I dislike very much to speak uncomplimentary of the State wherein the Fountain of Youth, surpassing even the one Ponce de Leon discovered and bathed in, is found, but being George Washington-like, I must say it is the poorest looking country I have seen for years and without, as far as I can see, a redeeming feature. Just in the heart of this desolate looking region Little Rock is located. It reminds one of an oasis in a vast desert and is a place of no small importance. It is decidedly well built up and the business houses and private buildings show good taste as well as an enormous expenditure of money. There are a goodly number of public buildings, schools and the like, which very materially improve the appearance of the city. Little Rock is a city of hills and with each high point the site of a large and handsome building, it may be said to be like Washington, a city of magnificent distances.

I leave this afternoon and will reach Hot Springs for supper, D. V. I hope my route will be a contrast to what I have seen so far and that for next paper I may have something more to say to the "countless thousands," who twice a week peruse the columns of the dear INTERIOR.

E. C. W.

HUBBLE.—Wheat harvest almost here and crop appears to be reasonably good. The out crop is an entire failure, being diseased till it is red as rust. Many crops are being plowed up and land put in corn. J. G. Carman has gone to Casey to see about teaching school. He is a good teacher and merits success. Jos. Smith, who has been living in Missouri for some years, is in to see his father, Thomas Smith. It is reported that his father and Wm. Todd and wife will go back with him in October. Mr. Brent Barnett reports 3 fine lambs stolen from his flock last week and he is confident that they were slaughtered. S. Hubble says two fine hogs were taken from his field the same time. Mutton and pork now, what next? J. P. Barnett has gone to his father's, in Rockcastle. J. B. Jarvis and wife are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Barnett, at this place. Dank Ball has gone to Middlesboro to drive a team for Jas. Hamilton, of Lancaster, at $15 per month and board. W. M. Greever has gone to Russell county with J. A. Hammonds to look at a farm with a view of buying. They will return first of the week. Bennie Wilmon has been on the sick list, but is out again. J. W. Bright and B. F. Engleman have been sworn into office and are now squire, ready to go to work at any call. Clarence Smith lost his youngest child last week and the bereaved mother and father have our sympathy. S. Hubble has bought a family horse of Mrs. Colonel Rice for $100. Mrs. S. Dunbar has been on the pony list since she came from Russell county, but is improving now. Dave Spoonamore sold his crop of old wheat last week to Lancaster Mill Co. for 90 cents. Frying chickens are scarce at $2.40 per dozen and eggs at 8 cents. Mr. Hort and Robert Luce are at home again from the booming town of Harriman. Joe Robinson sold to Jas. Hackley a yearling On Time colt for $125. Miss Hartie Robinson has taken Miss Lou Bright's place at the church organ and gives us some excellent music.

A Child Killed.

Can't Sleep Nights

She Was Completely Cured.

A daughter of my customer suffered from suppressed menstruation and her health was completely wrecked. At my suggestion she used one bottle of Dr. Acker's Female Regulator, which cured her. J. W. Hellums, Water Valley, Miss. Write the Bradford Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by druggists.

—Some liquor-sellers in Boston think of trying to circumvent the law by selling under the bar, as selling over a bar is only prohibited.

—The Old Baptists will hold a meeting at the Pinnacle on the 25th and 26th of June, at which the rite of foot-washing will be observed. Quite a number of our folks will attend.—Beattyville Enterprise.

—Rev. Virgil Maxey, a Baptist minister and a nephew of ex-United States Senator Maxey, of Texas, is going to try to unite the pulpit and the stage. He will act six days in the week and preach on Sunday.

—The Reformed Presbyterian Synod at New York has adopted resolutions forbidding preachers and licentiates to use tobacco and that its elders be positively prohibited from engaging in the sale of the weed in any form.

—The detective, whom a preacher employed to work up a case against Rev. T. C. Carter, who is on trial at Chattanooga for adultery, says: "It is the dirtiest, black-mailing scheme I have ever had anything to do with in all my career."

—The conference pension bill, which passed the House and will pass the Senate as soon as reached, provides for the further pensioning of dependent parents of deceased soldiers, gives all honorably discharged soldiers who served three months or more, and are now, or may hereafter be, permanently incapacitated for manual labor, by mental or physical disabilities not the result of their own vicious habits, a pension of not more than $12 or less than $6 per month, to continue during disability. Widows of soldiers who have died since the war, where their death cannot be proved to have been the result of disease contracted or wounds received in the service, are to have $6 per month, with $2 additional for each minor child. The estimated cost of the measure per annum is all the way up from $30,000,000 to $100,000,000. A conservative authority places it at $60,000,000. The surplus in the treasury will be a deficit before Harrison leaves the White House.

Among the speakers at the prohibition meeting at Stanford, on last Monday, was our young kinsman, Charley Powell, whom we are told made a good speech on temperance. He is a young man of fine promise, and if his health holds out we expect to see him reach a place of honor and usefulness in life. One of the marked traits of his character was his devotion to his mother, recently deceased. In our experience in life we have noted that the boy who stands by his mother is the one to be trusted, and is the one who will reach the places of honor among men.—Lancaster Record.

W. P. WALTON.

AFTER a careful survey of the field and after receiving warm assurances of support from leading citizens all over the State, Hon. Richard C. Warren has concluded to accept the suggestion of the INTERIOR JOURNAL, which spoke for the democracy of Lincoln county, and become a candidate for auditor, so we today present by authority his name to the democracy of Kentucky for that high and honorable office. It is with more than usual pride and pleasure that we do this, for Mr. Warren is the embodiment of everything requisite to a strong and dashing canvass and the faithful discharge of the duties of the office, which by nature and training he is so competent to fill. We need new and younger blood in the responsible office of auditor and in presenting Mr. Warren for the position we do so with an absolute confidence that his honesty, purity and uprightness are beyond cavil or question. His nomination will be a compliment to the young and progressive democracy of the State and his election a fitting reward to a man who has demonstrated that he is always faithful to every trust imposed in him. Nominate him and elect him and the democracy of Lincoln, which has rarely asked favors of the party, will give an absolute guarantee that no act of his will ever bring discredit or reproach upon the good name of the State.

THE election bill, otherwise known as the Force bill, which the republicans have determined shall become a law, is the most odious of the long line of odious measures that a desperate party has foisted on the country. Its object is to put the election of congressmen in the hands of republicans, who will count their candidates in without regard to right or justice. The expense to the government of such a law is estimated at $16,000,000 a year, there being no proposal to accomplish with the public funds what they have heretofore tried to accomplish with fat fried out of those pecuniarily interested in the perpetuation of that party in power. The plan is now for Reed to force the bill through the House, which he can very easily do, then have Vice President Morton to take a trip, put Ingalls in the chair of the Senate, who will adopt Reed's revolutionary tactics and with the aid of his lieutenants push the bill through the higher House. Harrison's little signature will complete the damnable work. It is a desperate game but desperate chances must be taken to retain the power which fat and blocks of five accomplished.

EULOGIES of the late Samuel J. Randall were delivered in Congress Saturday by a number of members, including Col. Breckinridge and Gov. McCreary. Both spoke in highest terms of his spotless character as a citizen and his eminent career as a statesman. Gov. McCreary spoke of their personal relations, which were of a nature that enabled them to know each other well. For one term the seats of the two gentlemen were located together, and when Mr. Randall found that he could not attend the sessions of this Congress last winter he sent Gov. McCreary a kind note, telling him to feel at liberty to use his (Randall's) seat, one of the most desirable in the hall. After Mr. Randall's death Gov. McCreary fell heir to his desk and chair, which he now occupies.

THE Lexington convention to nominate a candidate for superior judge, finding that it was impossible to effect the object of its meeting, adjourned sine die, after taking 126 ballots, the last not materially changed from the first. A resolution was adopted referring the selection of a nominee to the district committee, who was given power either to re-submit the matter to a new convention or call a primary election. These bitter contests, especially for a judicial office, bode no good to the party and are to be seriously regretted.

THE scandal in connection with the pension bureau, which it is proposed to investigate, grew out of a real estate scheme, to promote which Commissioner Raum is said to have borrowed $25,000 from Pension Agent Lemon and induced his subordinates to take stock in it on a promise of promotion. There is a great deal of rottenness connected with the pension bureau and many a claim is allowed more for the benefit of the agent than for the justness of the cause.

SENATORS STEWART, of Nevada, and Reagan, of Texas, 70 and 75 years of age respectively, had a quarrel in the Marble-room of the Senate, Friday, during which the Nevada man called the ex-Confederate post-master general a liar. No sooner had he said it than the latter let go his good right fist at his antagonist, but somebody caught his arm and the venerable old chestnuts were led off in opposite directions.

THE party in power is squandering the public money with a lavish hand. The 14 regular appropriation bills call for $300,000,000, which is $35,000,000 more than last year. A reckoning day must come to the bold bandits who prey so recklessly on the national treasury.

IN order to protect the financial honor of the State and to the end that none of its creditors may suffer, Gov. Buckner has placed at the disposal of the Sinking Fund Commissioners about $50,000 of his private fortune to tide it over its present financial strait. There will be but little money available before the taxes begin to come in in August and it was announced last week that all the funds had been exhausted. No money can be borrowed by law, but the governor is willing to take the risk of getting back any sum he may advance. There are not many men that would do it, but then there are not many men like the man who at present honors Kentucky as her chief executive. And, by the way, he is going to be a delegate to the constitutional convention, Hart county having chosen him the democratic nominee Saturday by a large majority over the young man who opposed him.

THE libel suit brought by a lawyer named Vance in Louisville against the Courier-Journal for charges reflecting on his official integrity, was decided in favor of the paper, which established to the satisfaction of the jury that what it charged was fully corroborated by the proof. There is rarely anything gained by libel suits, the majority of which are instituted for black-mailing purposes. No paper with any regard for its standing would knowingly publish anything derogatory of a man's character, unless it was satisfied that what it claimed was susceptible of proof, and no decent paper would refuse to make full reparation and apology if convinced that a wrong had been done. Libel suits are therefore useless, except in some instances to extort money, unless as in Mr. Vance's case, a man wants his meanness proved on him.

THE Court of Appeals rendered a decision Saturday that will be regarded with approval by the general public. It has always held that a telegraph company is liable for damages done by its failure to deliver promptly messages in which pecuniary interests are involved, and now it decides that such companies are liable for injury to the feelings. The decision was in a case in which the Western Union failed to deliver two messages regarding the illness and death of the plaintiff's father.

A New York man, captivated by the manner in which a pretty female census enumerator asked the questions required by law, fell in love with her, proposed and the marriage has taken place, all since the 1st of June. If they will now go to raising a family with the expedition that that they have prepared for it, the census of 2000 will be materially increased.

THE committee in the Lexington district has called another convention for July 9th, in that city, to make another attempt to nominate a candidate for superior judge, and fixed June 28th for the primaries. It is to be hoped that the latter will send men next time who think more of party success than of individual interests.

AS but 14 census enumerators have resigned, four have committed suicide, one only has killed his man, and one married, an exchange is led to remark that matters seem to be progressing more smoothly than was anticipated.

The platform commends the administration of President Harrison as "wise, firm and upright," and says that "Speaker Reed has, by the courageous discharge of his duty, done honor to the State and a great public service to the country."

—Since he has taken charge of the pension office Dr. C. J. Walton has paid out $1,121,545.15. This is at the rate of $8,831.05 for every day including Sunday, and $3,223,333.25 per year. The daily increase will doubtless bring this amount up to $3,500,000 or $4,000,000 per year within a short time.

—Mrs. Griggs, of Philadelphia, aged 29, had contracted a bad habit of using Jamaica ginger in excessive doses. Her husband remonstrated, and so, as the record runs, she took a dose of laudanum, "just to tantalize him." The dose was too much for her, and the husband now wears crape upon his shiny hat.

—A terrific thunder storm swept over Cincinnati shortly after noon Sunday. In less than an hour an inch and a half of rain fell. One man was swept into a sewer and drowned. It is reported that hail as large as 3 1/2 inches through and chunks of ice 3 or 4 inches long, the size of one's finger, resembling very much rock candy, fell in the vicinity of Russell's Mill, in this county, Saturday. No damage to stock or crops of consequence reported.

EDITOR A. R. DYCKE, who was complimented with the republican nomination for county judge of Laurel, has withdrawn from the ticket, because of the increasing business of his paper, the Echo, which demands his entire time. Thus does another man put away a crown.

AS MISS DONA MENEFFEE was driving along the pike in front of Peter Hampton's bees attacked her horse, causing it to run off, overturning the buggy and throwing Miss Meneffee to the ground, bruising her up considerably, but not seriously. The vehicle was badly damaged.

ON account of the rain the game between the INTERIOR JOURNALS and the Centre College nine, Friday afternoon, on the latter's grounds, was called at the end of the 2d inning, with our boys two to their opponents' nothing. Al Severance pitched and George Penny caught for the I. J.'s, and demonstrated that we are going to have a good battery. There were no especial features, save that Joe Barton distinguished himself by taking in a very long fly.

THE examining trials of Engineer Meals, Fireman Harry Geer and three other train men for shooting and wounding Section Boss Cummings, an account of which we gave at the time, was held before a magistrate at Barboursville Saturday, when each was held in $1,000 bail to the circuit court. Prof. W. F. McClary, a witness in the case, says that those who heard the evidence were satisfied that the men should have been acquitted, and several volunteered to go their bail.

A NUMBER of cars were wrecked on freight train 34 at Pittsburg Friday night. The train had been cut in two in order to set some cars on the side track. The grade is very heavy there and the cars left standing got loose in some way and crashed down into the others. Nobody was hurt, but a good many feelings were lacerated by the long and vexatious delay of the express. Mr. W. G. Sala, master of trains, went up and spent the night in clearing the wreck, his first trip out since he was so badly injured.

CLOSE CALL.—During the terrific rain and hail storm of Friday evening the whole town was startled about 7 o'clock by a blinding flash of lightning, followed instantly by a report which seemed to burst the very ear drums. In a few moments the report was flying that Miss Mollie, daughter of Mr. J. R. Hales, had been struck and killed. Investigation showed it to be untrue, but she had one of the closest calls imaginable. She was sitting reading in an upper room, when lightning struck the porch within six feet of her, tearing one of the posts out and burying itself in the ground. She was thrown from her chair and rendered insensible, but after much labor by her parents she was restored and in a few hours was nearly all right again, though she felt for a long time like hundreds of needles were piercing her flesh.

OLD GOLD and silver taken in exchange for goods. Full value allowed. Robert Fenzel.

COME now and take a cottage at Hale's Well while they are $3.50 a week. They will be higher after July 1. A. L. Spoonamore.

STRAYED.—A red sow, thin in flesh, just weaned pigs; hair worn off her sides, three rings in nose, underbit in right ear. Information as to her whereabouts will be appreciated. H. J. McRoberts.

A VERY heavy rain and hail storm visited this section Friday afternoon, but did no material damage. Some of the hail is said to have been as large as a guinea egg. It rained again Sunday evening after the hottest kind of weather that day and the day before.

OUR young friend, Mr. Charles R. Brock, who recently graduated with distinction at the State College will have charge of the Laurel Seminary next session and will be assisted by Mr. J. A. Yates. The patrons of the school may rest assured that it has never been in better hands.

THE Superior Court has adjourned for the summer. Among its last acts was to reverse the decision of the Lincoln Circuit Court in the case of Boone vs. Connelly. As if to make an excuse for quitting so soon in the season, the court gives out that it has disposed of 2,991 cases during the eight years of its existence.

DROWNED.—John Berry, whose people live in the Highland neighborhood, was drowned near Eubanks, Saturday. Mr. Jim Carter tells us that Berry and others went into the railroad pond to bathe, when he got into water over his head, and being unable to swim, was drowned. He was about 20 years of age.

ROBBER.—Oscar Smith, of Lebanon, traveling for Frank Bros., Philadelphia, claims that he was robbed at a Mt. Vernon hotel the other night by a well-known young man of town, who asked to occupy the same room with him. The amount stolen is stated at $110 in cash, $42.50 in checks and $300 in notes. We withhold names on account of the good standing of the young man's family until the matter is investigated.

DECLINES THE HONOR.—As we submitted Mr. J. M. McRoberts, Jr., is too sensible a man to accept the nomination for county judge by the prohibitionists, even if the acceptance meant an election, which it does not by any manner of means. Modest and unassuming he never sought political preferment from the party to which he gave aid and comfort for the best years of his life, and he is not disposed now to oppose by his candidacy a man, who has been his friend from earliest youth. But we will let Mr. McRoberts speak for himself. His card of declination appears elsewhere in this issue.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—For Rent—35 acres of clover to graze or cut. S. A. Middleton, Crab Orchard, Ky.
—Wheat harvest will commence in a day or two. The crop appears to be an average one.
—C. M. Spoonamore sold to Smith Baughman 3 mare male colts, to be delivered at weaning time, for $220.

—M. F. Elkin bought of J. A. & R. H. Givens, Leslie Carter, John Cash and Fred Reichenbach a lot of butcher cattle at about 2 1/2 cts.
—At Commissioner's sale of the Wilgus farm Capt. J. D. Yarrington bought $300 acres of the farm at $120 per acre.—Lexington Transcript.
—Twenty horses were tied to a barbed wire fence near a Missouri church, when the lightning struck it, knocking all the horses down and killing four of them.
—An Indiana cow, 5 years old, is the mother of 8 calves. When 3 years old she gave birth to 4 well-developed calves, in the spring of 1889 to twins and last week to two healthy steer calves.
—Mercer was visited Saturday by a severe storm of wind, rain and hail, which did much damage. Lightning struck a flock of sheep belonging to Atwood Davis and killed 15 of them. It also killed a $300 horse for him.
—In 1867 the corn crop of the United States was about half the yield of that of 1889, but the corn crop of 1867 sold for as much money in the markets as that of 1889. The same is true of the wheat crops of the two years. That is what occasions all this row among farmers and that is what is causing them to organize alliances, wheels and things.

—Miller & Kennedy have bought during the past ten days 2,300 lambs at from 5 to 5 1/2 cents.—Midway Clipper.

FINE WEDDING CAKES.
A Work of Art That Cost About Seven Hundred Dollars.

bracelets, Ear-Rings and Solitaire Rings in Slices-The Bridal Cake Ordered by a New York Sporting Man-A Caterer's Comments.
An enormous wedding cake towered like an iceberg on the counter of a Sixth avenue caterer. To the average eye it must have appeared about six feet high. The actual altitude, as the caterer proudly stated to a New York News reporter, was three feet eight. Upon a massive silver salver, with lion's claws for feet, was set the basis of this superb structure, in size and shape resembling a cart-wheel cheese, and covered with frosting elaborately embellished with wreaths and garlands of flowers, molded in sugar and touched with spots of color in tinted candy. From this foundation rose a wondrous combination of figures, plants and flowers, made of sugar and of candy, enriched with tints of colored jellies, and with salted almonds, sugar pecans and other toothsome kernels stuck in here and there as variations and embellishments upon the artistic whole. The caterer swelled and glowed with the triumph of an artist as the reporter examined this master work from various critical standpoints.

"Now then," said he, "tell me that isn't a beauty and I'll ask you what you know about beauty any how. Go ahead now, will you?"

The reporter declined the challenge on the general ground that he had never during a protracted experience upon this mundane sphere amid the most ostentatious surroundings enjoyed such an outland feast as he was presented to him. "It looks so good," said he, "that I could eat a slice of it." And this crowning tribute so impressed the creator of the object to which it was paid that he invited the reporter to a nip of maraschino and an ice. "I'd give you a slice," said he, "but you can't cut slices out of $500 cakes for fun, you know."

The reporter ventured the suggestion that $500 was a pretty stiff price for a wedding cake, and the dispenser of sweets responded with a somewhat indignant snort. "Well, that depends upon the wedding. There are some weddings that a $10 cake would be dear for and some that are worth all the cake you want to give them. I make cakes for from $20 to $50, and sell lots of them to nice people too. But they are not originals, you know. When something extra nice and new is wanted it has got to be paid for. You can't expect artists to work for fun, can you?"

He went on to explain that nowadays a wedding cake to be a wedding cake must be a creation by itself. In the first place, each fine cake must be flavored and fruited after a new fashion. This necessitated the expense of much ingenuity and skill on the part of the chef. Then the design had to be especially made by the sugar cook. Often an attempt was made to render it appropriate to the occasion. Thus, when a well-known sportsman's daughter was married a couple of years ago, mounted ladies and gentlemen formed the figures on the cake, and horseshoes, bundles, whips, etc., were introduced as decorations. A month ago a wealthy young New Yorker who is a great breeder of dogs got married. His bride cake had a portrait in wax and colors, of his favorite St. Bernard on top, and by its side his bride's favorite collie. The horse cake cost $225. The dog cake ran higher, as the wax dogs had to be especially modeled by a sculptor. Its cost was $300. Big as these prices seem, the caterer claims to have surpassed them. He tells of a California millionaire who, when his daughter married, had two wedding cakes made. One was for the bride and the other for the groom. They stood three feet six inches high each, and in the bride's cake was baked a pair of diamond solitaire earrings and in the groom's a splendid solitaire ring, which went to those lucky enough to secure the rich cuts. These cakes cost the happy father $700, exclusive of the jewels, which he provided separately.

A great many party cakes were also made with jewelry gifts in them, he said. He was constantly called upon to put handkerchiefs in cakes for ordinary dancing and supper parties. Once a man brought him a pair of bracelets to be put in a cake. They were so large that the chef had to mark the places where they were put in order that the carver of the cake might be able to know how to cut into it.

The costliest wedding-cake this expert had ever turned out, he said, was priced at $625. It was so big that it had to be set on a table by itself, and it took a week's work of the cake and sugar cooks—who, by the way, are distinct artists in the trade, to manufacture it. It was made for a Wall street man on the occasion of his second marriage to a lady who had been divorced from her previous husband. The happy bridegroom had made a strenuous kick at the amplitude of the bill, the caterer stated, but he had finally paid it. A. he signed the check, this voracious authority states he remarked to himself:

"Well, I guess she's worth it, anyhow."

Vivian on Tight Lacing.
Prof. Vivian, of Berlin, in a lecture on diseases of the liver, again condemned tight lacing. The outward pressure of tight lacing so surely affects the internal organs that from the shape of a liver one could determine to what period of fashion the possessor belonged. Excessive lacing caused whole portions of the liver to disappear. Others grew abnormally, causing changes of the most vital importance.

A Colt Adopted by a Cow.
A young colt in Minnesota, Dak., recently lost its mother by accident, and has been adopted by a cow. The cow has a calf, but seems to divide her affection equally between the colt and her own offspring, nursing both with the strictest impartiality.

FIFTY YEARS CHAINED.
A North Carolina Idiot Who Possessed Remarkable Strength.

Jay Hill died a few days ago at his home, five miles above Trinity College, N. C., aged seventy years. He was a most remarkable character. He was born an idiot, but since infancy had possessed physical strength to a rare degree, and was well formed in every particular, with the exception of his head, which was so extremely ill-shaped as to give him more the appearance of a beast than of a man. When but a child he was often so violent that it was necessary to chain him to the floor. Notwithstanding this unnatural existence he grew and strengthened day by day, until his chain was not sufficient to hold him, and two or three times he broke loose and fled to the woods. During his brief liberty he was as violent as a tiger, and it was difficult to recapture and return him to his place of confinement. He was fastened with stronger bonds, and with the exception of a few days he remained chained to the floor in the same room for about fifty years. He had an insatiable desire for tearing to pieces any thing that he could get, and at times it was impossible to keep him clothed. Flax was spun up into coarse, strong threads and woven into cloth, which was doubled and quilted and made into garments for him, but with his teeth and his talon-like fingers he tore them to threads. He has been known to tear to pieces a solid stick of hickory wood with nothing but his teeth and fingers. He ate as ravenously as a lion, and could drink, without the slightest pain, boiling coffee.

On several occasions members of the family narrowly escaped being killed by him. One evening a sister started to go out of doors. She passed too near him and he sprang at her with great force, knocked her through the door into the yard, so badly injuring her that it was not thought possible for her to live. His father provided for him before his death, leaving property enough to maintain a wretched life through all these years. It was stipulated in the will that he should not be taken to an asylum and that he should be kept on the old homestead.

A BIG HAIL STORY.

Baron Munch, a French Count, Clean Out by a Hail Storm.

Dr. Aug. Munch, a learned son of Saxony, now residing at Mount Healthy, O., tells of a famous hail storm in his native country, says the Cincinnati Times-Tribune, which did for the doctor's ancestral vineyard possesses all the characteristics of a hail storm. "It was on the 12th of May, 1874, about three o'clock in the afternoon, that a sharp hail cloud, already angry in the heavens over my native village, near Wiesbaden in Germany, and the terrible thunder warned of a big storm. Just as I began to hail. The hail was small at first, but they rapidly increased to the size of hen's eggs. My people had all fled to places of safety and were watching the awful bombardment. All vegetation was beaten flat into the earth and the crops destroyed. But horror seized the people when they saw that the hail-stones were increasing and the roar of the storm was deafening. The hail-stones became the size of a tennis ball, then of a large-sized glass, and great masses of ice fell that were fully as large as the globe of that lamp (which was about five inches in diameter). Yes, six, you may well look amazed, but great lumps of ice fell that weighed six pounds, and these had knuckles upon them two and three inches long; great rounded masses of ice they were. Horses and cattle were stricken and mangled in the fields, the roofs of houses were beaten in, scarcely a building escaped and that is not all. These hail-stones, millions of them, fell into the river and were swept down by the current until the stream became choked at the town of Ormping, and the flood rose into the town and a portion of it was submerged. The condition became so serious that an appeal for public aid was made to the country. People who lived under the shadow of the Harz mountains on that May day in 1874 will never forget that hail-storm, and it is one of the current stories of that people to their children and to travelers. That was a hail-storm! It was a plague!"

HENRY DANIEL'S FATE.

A German Soldier Who Spent Nineteen Years in Slavery in Africa.

Recently, according to a story translated from the German by the Philadelphia Times, Christoph Daniel's family and friends in the village of Greisenstein were in a state of great agitation, as well as the most heartfelt joy. They had a son who had been wounded at Greivelt in the war of 1870. The parents had received a certificate of his death, saying that he had died on the 15th of August. To the great joy of parents and friends, this death notice has proven false. Lately the parents received a letter from their son Henry, in Algeria. This was the very one they thought had died nineteen years before.

Henry Daniel relates in his letter that he had been taken prisoner by the Turks, brought to Africa and given to a plantation owner as a present. There he worked for nineteen years as a slave, and suffered the most cruel treatment; meat was thrown to him raw and he had no clothing on his body since 1870. He said that he had made six attempts to escape, having failed every time. Finally, when the plantation owner was dead and buried, his escape was successful. Three days and three nights he was on his flight, until he fell exhausted and tired out.

In the city in which he fell he was cared for and concealed at the time of his writing a letter home by German tradespeople. This had been the first chance he had of sending any notice to his parents. The son heartily begged his parents to have him set free. The very evening of the receipt of the letter the father informed the circuit officials as well as the local council, whereupon dispatches were sent to Berlin to effect the final release of the poor fellow.
